British Computer Society announces IT professional awards shortlist

Wednesday 26 July 2006

The British Computer Society (BCS) has announced the shortlist for its prestigious IT Professional Awards.

Some 70 medallists made it to the final stage of the awards which are sponsored by Computer Weekly. The winners will be announced in December at a gala evening for over 1500 guests at the Grosvenor House Hotel, London.

David Clarke, BCS CEO said, "The diversity of entries this year has been impressive with projects from IT suppliers as well as from the end user community. We have been very impressed by the high quality of all the projects and the judges certainly have their work cut out to find the overall winners from the medallists who have reached this stage."
